PROPONENTS OF HARBOR PROJECT DRAW APPLAUSE

Congressman McGrath and Other Speakers Point Out Benefits

Noting an overwhelming sentiment in favor of the $460,000 San Mateo County Harbor development bonds, civic leaders today predicted favorable action by the voters next Tuesday of the creation of a peninsula harbor to attract new industries and payrolls.

An overwhelming sentiment in favor of the harbor development was noted at a rally in the Burlingame City Hall, where talks favorable to the project were vociferously applauded while opposing speakers protecting private railway and steamship interests were booed. Not a single criticism by a disinterested citizen was heard.

Congressman John J. McGrath, who secured federal gifts for the harbor, points out the ill-wisdom of growth without industries, which places the whole tax burden on the home owner, in saying:

"In this county it happens there is nothing to tax but the home. Taxes will continue to increase as our population increases, and they will continue to fall on the home as long as we continue to be a purely residential county.

"The average cost of education per student is $200 and the average tax paid by the student's parents is $100, so the deficit is met by the man who has no children going to school.

"We have 50,000 acres of industrial land valued at $10 per acre. The man who owns a small home assessed at $1000 pays as much in taxes as the man who owns 100 acres of this industrial land. Industrial lands must be made valuable by making it attractive for industries to use them. Industries will come to the peninsula only when rail and water are tied together."

Citing the $18,000 taxes paid by the cement plant at Redwood City, port boosters point out that two more such industires will pay sufficient taxes to meet the entire cost of the harbor development if it should prove an unsuccessful venture. This is not taking into account the revenue of the port, which is expected to be self-sustaining and retires its own bonds so that no cost will be shouldered on the taxpayer.

Colonel B. C. Allin, internationally known port authority, says of the county harbor:

"You have a perfect opportunity for harbor development and one infinitely simpler than faced by other communities. It would be a crime not to grab this opportunity."

Allin said that the working man should be 100 per cent back of the development for what it would mean in industries and payrolls.

Support of business men was also urged by Allin, who said that every ton of freight moving over the county docks would mean $1 left on the peninsula. It was estimated that this will mean a sum between $100,000 and $150,000 per year of new business.

Since the voters overwhelmingly approved the port district in June, Allin urged that they now lend the credit "to complete the job."

The $460,000 in harbor credit will be added to $203,000 in federal gifts to complete a $663,000 development. With $333,000 already spent by the government and private interests in Redwood Harbor, the improvement will mean a $1,000,000 investment, less than half of which would be loaned as a credit to the port district by the taxpayers.

NATIVE SONS PARADE IN OX CART TO AUTO

Evolution of transportation in California will be portrayed in a colorful spectacle which will be presented on Sunday, September 9, at the California state fair under the auspices of the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West.

Beginning with the lone Indian on his pony, the parade will include the ox carts of the friars, the covered wagons of the forty-niners, the stately victorias and phaetons of the horse age and on up to the newest streamlined automobiles.

The parade will be part of the big program of drill team and drum corps contests which will be presented by parlors of the order from all parts of California.

On the Admission Day holiday on Monday, September 10, thousands of marchers will be in line, with dozens of floats and bands, for the official Native Sons and Native Daughters Admission Day parade.

ORGANIZATION IS FORMED TO PASS SCHOOL BONDS

Committee To Make Effort Looking to Adoption of Proposed Issue

Perfection of an organization having for its purpose the securing of passage of the proposed issue of bonds for the erection of three new primary schools in Daly City has been accomplished.

At a meeting at Woodrow Wilson School on Wednesday evening permanent organization of the committee was effected, with representatives selected from the Parent-Teacher Units from Colma, Woodrow Wilson-Vista Grande, Crocker and General Pershing Schools, and also from the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary.

Announcement was made at this meeting that official notice had been received from Washington that the loan and grant covering these bonds had been approved by the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works. The money will be available to the school district as soon as the bonds are voted by the electors.

The federal government will make an outright gift of a sum equal to 30 per cent of the money expended for labor and material in the construction of the new schools. The rate of interest on the loan in connection with the bonds will be only 4 per cent, it was stated.

SCHOOL FUNDS APPORTIONMENT

Information has been received from Sacramento by Pansy Jewett Abbott, county superintendent of schools, to the effect that the schools in San Mateo County will receive the following estimated amounts during 1934-1935:

Apportionments from the state school fund and from the state general fund: Elementary, $620,243.12; high, $356,613.72.

Supervisors Make Slash In County Year's Tax Rate

Hearing Opened On New Budget at Redwood City Thursday

San Mateo County's tax rate will be three and four-tenths cents lower than last year, according to announcement by the Board of Supervisors.

The rate last year was $2.083, while this year it will be $2.049.

Despite the fact that the tax rate was reduced, it was not necessary to ask county employes to take a reduction in salary, as had been contemplated. This was made possible by a new setup adopted for the relief affairs of the county.

The tax rate determined upon includes the $63,000 needed for the two elections, $26,000 to pay the delinquent interest on improvement district bonds and the $300,000 unemployment relief. The county departmental budgets were slashed to the bone, and virtually every department is operating this year on budgets less than those in force last year.

The amount of money to be raised by taxation in the county this year is $884,232, County Controller E. M. Stack stated.

The tax rate announced will not become official until public hearings have been held on the budget. These

BUDGET INCREASE REFUSED BY STATE

The State Board of Equalization has refused to allow the San Mateo County budget of 1934-1935 to exceed the limitations of the Riley-Stewart amendment, with the exception of a $63,000 appropriation for the primary election. The state board held that the county itself was not responsible for that particular increase.

Action by the Board of Supervisors to have the federal government advance 75 per cent of the county's relief cost from the 60 per cent now allowed is under way.

Supervisor Al Witt of Daly City pointed out that San Francisco and other counties have won such a concession from the government.

CITY IS GRANTED RIGHT TO EXCEED EXPENDITURES

Assures Continued Garbage Collection and Pay For Volunteer Firemen

Word was received from Sacramento, Tuesday of this week, by Mayor H. H. Smith that the State Board of Equalization has granted permission to the City of Daly City to exceed its expenditures of last year by more than 5 per cent.

This permission had been sought so as to assure continuance of garbage collection by the city and also to enable the council to appropriate $5000 to be used for pay for persons serving in the city fire department.

The authorization to exceed the 5 per cent expenditures was granted the council last year by a direct vote of the people.

The application to the state board also asked permission to expend $5000 for materials and supervision of work for relief of unemployment.

PARENT TEACHER OF SEVENTEENTH DISTRICT MEET

Sessions Officially Opened For Discussion of Many Topics of Interest

The Seventeenth District, California Congress of Parents and Teachers, last Saturday officially opened its activities for the year at a meeting presided over by Mrs. John J. Garland.

There was an enthusiastic audience which was composed of members from all over San Mateo County. An especially large attendance of unit presidents was noted, thirty-two out of the forty-one registering.

The auditorium of the Burlingame High School was decorated for the occasion in African marigolds, purple petunias and yellow zinnias by Roosevelt Grammar and Burlingame High units. Mr. W. T. Van Voris, principal of the high school, in his address, welcomed the Parent-Teacher people as guests of the Board of Education and as fellow builders, stating that it takes the steel of moral courage to be a builder of lives.

Mrs. Dana Thomas, key speaker of the day, spoke on "True Faith." In closing, she pleaded: "Let us have faith in our country and our institutions; let us keep faith in our homes and schools; let us have faith in our leaders, in ourselves, and let us have faith in God."

During the thirty minute "Question Box" the question was asked whether a parent-teacher official might endorse personal friends for a political office or actively campaign for them. The state board has taken the stand that parent-teacher leaders are violating the by-laws of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers when they campaign for candidates for public office. They may engage in political activities or parent-teach-

IMPORTANT PLANS MADE BY MINERS AT STATE FAIR

By J. W. MARCHBANK
(Pioneer in Frontier Mining Work)

Complete Preparations For Mining Day at the Annual Affair

Wednesday, September 5, a day pretty close at hand, will be Mining Day at the State Fair. With its background of the days of '49, California is the ideal state for a celebration along the lines of "mining—past, present and future." Complete preparations have been made for the highly interesting meeting.

Sacramento, not so far from Coloma, El Dorado County, where "Jim" Marshall made his epochal discovery of gold, properly enough is the place selected for the Mining Day. The luncheon and conference, sponsored by the mining department of the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce, will be held in the hosticultural building of the state fair grounds.

Right now miners are keenly alive as to the possibilities of getting money from the federal government for the development of their properties, quartz or placer, and it is expected former United States Senator T. L. Oddie, president of the Gold Mining Association of America, in the principal address of the meeting, will devote most of his time to the discussion of the loans. The Nevadan will give the latest information from Washington as to the manner of obtaining the required capital from Uncle Sam.

Meetings in various towns have been held and will be held for the discussion of the federal mining loans. Well known speakers, thoroughly conversant with mining conditions, will talk at these gatherings. Last Monday there was an enthusiastic meeting at Jackson; on Tuesday at Grass Valley; Wednesday at Placerville; Thursday at Oroville and Quincy; today at Redding, and tomorrow there will be a session at Yreka, and on Monday comes the windup at Weaverville.

Miners are taking interest in a movement for some of the activity of the SERA and the Citizens Conservation Corps to be directed toward construction of roads in mining districts of the state. The Sacramento Bee tells of a request by the Sacramento chapter of the Mining Association of California to Charles W. Deterding Jr. to urge the federal government to "get busy" on the road building. Deterding is in Washington on relief work.

The mining association pertinently enough points out that the development of rich mining districts is held back on account of the lack of passable highways. It is held feasible for CCC workers to clear out brush and other fire hazards in the vicinity of operating mines.

The country is apparently on the Gold Bullion Standard advocated for some time by Frank Vanderlip, James Warburg and other experts. This is indicated by the recent approval of the United States government of the exportation to France of a gold shipment of $1,000,000 by the Guaranty Trust Company of New York.

Treasury officials have been quoted as contending that the United States has been on an International Gold Bullion Standard since the revaluation of the dollar some months ago. There is seeming agreement between economists of the "liberal" school and government officials that gold should be used as the exigencies of world commerce dictate. Of course, that limitation is a far cry from the old condition under which United States currency was redeemable in gold on demand. Some of the "gold bugs" are still agitating for a return to the rigid gold standard, but a middle group of students of monetary affairs see an advance in the international bullion type of standard.

At present the exchange rate of the franc and the dollar makes it profitable to buy gold in this country and sell it in France.

LADIES' HOME CLUB MEMBERS ENTERTAIN

The members are now interesting themselves with plans for a gala carnival and bazar to be held in the month of November. They are well pleased with the new clubroom and, judging from the well attended business meetings, will continue to enjoy the use of the quarters.

Many new projects are being discussed, and another year of progress is in the making.

SAN MATEO PAPER ENDORSES PETERSON

The Editor of The Record gladly adds his endorsement to that given in the following editorial printed in the San Mateo Times of Thursday, August 18, and which reads as follows:

COL. FRED PETERSON

Whatever difficulties voters may encounter in choosing good public servants from the hundred and fifty candidates for office at the primary election, August 28, they will probably have little hesitancy in selecting their assemblyman from this district.

The incumbent, Frederick Peterson, of Burlingame, has made so pronounced a success of the job to which he was elected two years ago that he has won the confidence and acclaim of the whole county. Differing from many holders of public office, Peterson has given his entire time to the job, not only during the period when the legislature was in session, but even since it closed.

Few men in the county are so well acquainted with every phase of Peninsula life, not only of its present needs but of its future. Since he first took up his residence in Burlingame, fifteen years ago, he has been an active and progressive figure in the civic life of the county. During four years on the Burlingame city council, he so well demonstrated his capacity that he was sent to the legislature in 1932.

In the legislative halls and before department heads of the state government he has proved a valued champion of county needs. In legislative battles his vote has always been counted on the side of progressive bills such as the old age pension, child welfare and educational measures, bills for reducing penalties of tax delinquents, a bill which equalized the tax on public utilities and gave the state an increased revenue of more than $6,000,000 annually and bills providing for tax and mortgage moratoriums.

During the world war he served in the United States army with distinction and won the rank of lieutenant-colonel, a title which he never uses in private life.

Peterson's name will appear on both the Republican and Democratic tickets at the primary election. He is a man who has proved himself a valued public servant and is entitled to re-election at the primaries.

Again the Daly City Theater baseball team was victorious in its game last Sunday, this time defeating the Butchers Local No. 115 club by the score of 17 to 6.

REDWOOD PAPER ENDORSES HOFFMAN

The following appeared as an editorial in the columns of a Redwood City paper, Monday of this week, under the caption:

HOFFMANN QUALIFIED

Outstanding in the list of candidates asking election to the post of district attorney is Edward Hoffmann. Mr. Hoffmann has the education, ability, sincerity and personality which will go to make a distinguished record for himself in the conduct of that office.

An unusually frank expression of his desire to fill the office is given by Mr. Hoffmann in the following brief comment on his candidacy:

"I believe that I have the training and experience to make a good and efficient district attorney if elected, and in the event I do make an efficient officer, I will have established a reputation for honesty and ability that will be a valuable working asset in the practice of law in San Mateo County. A lawyer's reputation is his chief working capital. To make good in the office means more to me and my future than anything I have ever undertaken or could undertake."

Edward Hoffmann was graduated from Leland Stanford University with the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Juris Doctor. Following in the footsteps of his father, who was the leading attorney of the state of Utah, Mr. Hoffmann established a record of very high scholastic standing at Stanford University. He entered upon the practice of law at San Mateo some seven years ago and is widely experienced in every phase of that profession.

Mr. Hoffmann is entirely independent in his campaign and, although he has been endorsed by several fraternal and civic organizations, he is not affiliated in any way or supported by any political group or politician.

By education, experience and through his honesty and integrity, Mr. Hoffmann is prepared to enter upon an efficient and loyal service to his county if the voters choose to elect him to this important task.

Editor's Note—Mr. Hoffman has received the endorsement of a large number of prominent attorneys and city officials of this county for the office he seeks.

Susan Sheppard, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Morris Sheppard, of Texas, has been chosen May Queen by the students of the woman's college at Duke University.

Mrs. Virginia Callsen, historian for the last term, formally presented the Unit with the beautiful history book compiled by her last year.

The Low Sixth Grade of the Woodrow Wilson School won the beautiful P.-T. A. emblem for one month as a reward for the largest attendance of mothers at the August meeting.

A committee consisting of past presidents of the Unit were appointed by the president, Mrs. Pearl Jones, to draw up plans for the yearly Parents and Teachers lunch to be given in the near future by the Woodrow Wilson-Vista Grande P.-T. A.

MINING NOTES OF VARIOUS SECTIONS

Nearly all placer mining operators in the Iditarod, Innoko and upper Kuskokwin areas are working full blast and everyone is busy in those regions, but delays in delivery of freights due to the coast strike and low water on rivers is causing a shortage of supplies, at least for the time being. Water for mining operations is not as plentiful as desired, but is sufficient thus far for most mining purposes, and a good yield of gold is promised for the season. This is the situation as summarized by David Strandberg, well known placer mining operator of the Flat and Cripple Creek camps.

Samples of ore from most of the important mines of the interior, collected by the Chamber of Mines and private individuals, are to be shipped to Vancouver for the mineral exhibit at the Canadian Pacific Exhibition. Kootenay exhibits in the past have received numerous awards and have been viewed with interest in many parts of Canada, the United States and England.

Interest is being shown in mining properties in the vicinity of Last Chance, Placer County. All the mines in the vicinity are gravel mines, with the exception of the Rublin mine, which is not now being worked. The Black Bear mine is operated by Chris McCarty with a crew of fifteen men. The Glenn mine has nine men employed. The Red Star, owned by Dave Ray, is being prepared for mining operations. Other mines in the district operating are the Pine Nut mine, Blue Eyes mine, X-Ray mine and the Dixie Queen mine.

Harry Bardin of Angels Camp has been chosen to prepare a mining exhibit for Calaveras County at the state fair. The county's display was arranged for years by the late Jarvis Lloyd. First award for newly mined gold was won by the exhibit for the last two years.

The mill grade has been completed at the Hardway mine, near Pine Grove, by the Black Wonder Gold Mines Company. The company also is opening the Redberry claim, near the Climax mine.

The Zeibright mine, operated by the Empire-Star Mining Company, Ltd., a subsidiary of the Newmont Mining Company, is erecting an addition to the mill adjacent to the Zeibright property in Bear Valley. The mine is producing a quantity of low grade ore.

July profit of Alaska Juneau Gold Mining Company reached $190,000, after operating expense and development charges, but before depreciation depletion and taxes. The figure compares with $111,000 in July, 1933. For the first seven months of this year profit has been $1,595,000, as compared with $723,000 in the first seven months of last year.

T. S. McDougal, lessee of the Fern mine in the Willow Creek district, who has fifteen men employed on underground and surface work, reported during a trip to Anchorage that the work is progressing nicely. Day and night shifts are employed and the mill is grinding continually excepting for about half an hour daily while the machinery is being oiled.

McDougal is well pleased with the operations and says the Fern mine is one of the best small gold quartz mines in the district.

The road from Wasilla to the Fern and Lucky Shot and other mines in the Willow Creek area is in splendid condition and freight and passengers can be carried right to the Fern and other mines.

The Mitchell Dane and the Blakley Homestead properties are now being opened by G. G. Chisholm in the Pine Grove district in Amador County. The Blakley Homestead is a new property and good ore is reported to have been uncovered. The Mitchell Dane is an old producer, which had been abandoned for several years.

ASSESSOR SHOULD KNOW NEW VALUES

"Perhaps the most important qualification of a county assessor is the knowledge of present day values as against those set when conditions were more normal," states Clarence W. Jackson, candidate for county asessor. "Values set years ago are not true values today, as conditions change values change, and assessments should reflect true values."

NEVADA MINE HITS GOLD-SILVER VEIN

According to officials of the Como Gold Mines Company, operating properties near Dayton, Nevada, report that the north rapidan vein recently was reached through a long lateral from the main tunnel. The vein bears gold and silver in considerable quantities.

Until further work has been done on the vein the extent and value of the ore will not be determined.

The officials stated the result of estimates, after further development work has been done, will be made public as soon as ascertained.

TRINITY MINE STOCK IS LISTED LOCALLY

Trinity Consolidated Mines, a company operating gold producing property in Trinity County, was listed on the San Francisco Mining Exchange recently.

Trading in the new issue began at 30 cents per share and ranged up to 32 cents. It finished the first day of trading at 31 cents.

MILL FOR MINE IS DELIVERED BY PARACHUTE

Old Timers From North Say Mining Days of Old Are Sure to Come Back

If the "Lady Known as Lou," says Sidney Norman in an interesting article in the Vancouver Sun, blew into Dawson, the golden center of thirty-five years ago, she'd find slim pickings today.

Since the boom days of the dying years of the last century, things have been tough with the old town. Instead of a clamorous, devil may care crowd, pokes bulging with gold, only 500, out of 35,000, now stick to the old stamping ground.

The greybeards say she'll come back, but meanwhile, the old buildings with the western store fronts are one by one falling down and as they fall are grabbed by the faithful for firewood.

The outlook today should be even cold enough to satisfy Dan McGrew.

From a roaring, whooping, sordidly picturesque vortex of the gold lust, Dawson City is rapidly descending to a silent shroud among ghost cities of the North.

That's one interesting story brought back from the north by a party of mining men who have just returned to Vancouver from what was perhaps the longest chartered plane trip in the history of North American aviation.

Flying To Artics

To be nearly exact—7500 miles over mountains that kissed the skies; along rock skirted shores of the Pacific; up into the Artics to the most northerly town on the continent—Aklavik; thence over the land that God forgot to Great Bear Lake.

"From there down to Edmonton, thence westerly to Ravelstoke, where the only forced landing of the long trip occurrel in the cruelly fast Columbia River, thence to Kootenay Lake and Nelson, and home via Grand Forks and the Fraser River.

Some jaunt, eh what? But without mishap of any kind, except the forced landing in the Columbia, when it was necessary to leave the plane temporarily and hike up the steep bank for sustenance. Luckily, a road construction camp was providentially handy.

The party consisted of General A. D. McRae, Conservative leader, interested in mines clear to the North Pole; his consulting engineer, Ira B. Joralemon, one of the best-known of the profession on the American continent and largely responsible for the spectacular developement of Bralorne, in the Bridge River District, and Major J. C. Ross, war veteran and member of the stock exchange firm of H. H. Peters and Co.

First Hop, Fairbanks

The start was made on July 5 and Fairbanks reached after a record of 16 hours, with fueling stops at Prince Rupert and Juneau. From that point, where a week was spent, many mines high up in the glacier-bound mountains were visited, by plane, automobile or other means of conveyance.

Mr. Joralemon, who is now making a periodical inspection of the Bralorne mine, says the trip was the most interesting and at times most exciting he has ever taken and his goings and comings have covered a very large part of the mining world.

Machinery By Air

In his memory one scene sticks out as pre-eminently—a mine in Alaska equipped with a small mill, every pound of which was delivered by plane.

The name of the mine had been forgotten in the kaleidoscopic moves of the party, but at any rate it is located about ten miles from Valdez and just about one mile above that Alaska town.

It is owned by a young Chinaman, who graduated from the School of Mines at Stanford University, California and who has financed the development to the producing stage, just reached when the Vancouver party visited the scene.

The main opening of the mine is on the side of a perpetual glacier and cannot be reached by trail except during a very few weeks of the year.

Dropped By Parachute

Consequently, it was necessary to deliver the mail machinery by air and since the equipment includes a small ball mill, Diesel engine, plates and tables, the feat must be rated among the real achievements of aviation.

The glacier runway is approximately 1000 feet long with a seven per cent downward slope, offering a landing field for an adventurous aviator when the ice is covered with snow or slush ice.

When the field is glare ice, a landing is impossible and, since the mill had to be taken in, parachute delivery was resorted to. The machinery parts were securely wrapped in mattresses and attached to parachutes. A helper was taken along to help the bundles out into nothingness, after a height of several thousand feet above the glacier had been reached.

Below the glacier are sheer ice liffs and above it unscalable pinnacles of rock. The aim of the aviator had therefor to be good and the record shows that so far every part of the mill had gently landed within a few hundred feet of its permanent location.

In one month 80 tons of equipment and supplies was landed without mishap of any kind and without serious breakage. The largest piece, part of the Diesel plant, weighed 1400 pounds. It was lashed in several mattresses, attached to a specially large parachute and heaved overboard, landing within 200 feet of the site prepared for it.

The aviator who engineered this feat is Bob Reeve, looked upon by the uninitiated as a daredevil, but, according to Mr. Joralemon, one of the most careful pilots in the game.

An Experienced Flier

His experience covers a wide range. He pioneered the flying route from Santiago, Chile to Buenos Aires, Argentine and is the only one out of ten contemporary fliers on that route that now survives. He also laid out the present route from Panama to Chile.

He landed in Alaska with 20 cents in his pocket and rustled a job in a garage. Striking up an acquaintance with the fliers of the Alaska Airways, he wangled a deal upon an old six-passenger Fairchild plane, reconditioned it himself and now goes places where others refuse to go—here there, anywhere.

He is the kind that has made the name of northern fliers known around the world and it is gratifying to know that, instead of just 20 cents, he now has a nice little bank account and is buying additional planes.

Alaska's Opportunities

In a mining way, Mr. Joralemon's impression of Alaska is that it offers splendid opportunities for men with small capital and unlimited energy. There are many very successful little operations dotted over the country, both lode and placer, but the man who is afraid of work had better stay away.

With Fairbanks as a base, Mr. Joralemon visited the Kantishna district, 170 miles away and the Circle district, 140 miles; the Valdez district, 400 miles and the Chisana district, 200 miles south. Dawson is 320 miles from Fairbanks.

Dawson Clean-Up

Reverting to Dawson, Mr. Joralemon says it is dead, very dead. One enterprising fellow is, however, making money at the old game. He has set up a washing plant and has permission from the town authorities to scrape the dust and gravel from under the wooden, slatted sidewalks upon condition that he replaces the sections before daylight.

So far he had done well from the dust and small nuggets that were lost from the pokes of the bibulously-inclined of boom days and is rapidly developing into one of the financial magnates of the city. Now and then he finds an earring or other bauble that might have belonged to Lou or other light o'love and altogether business is interesting as a Christmas grab-bag.

His best haul, however, was on a lot formerly occupied by a saloon that burned down. There he made what might be called a real killing, the place evidently having been a favorite reddezvous of gentlemen careless with their pokes.

His washing plant is set up in a vacant lot next to the Royal Alexandra Hotel, which will doubtless be remembered by many an old-timer.

So far as flying is concerned, Mr. Joralemon is something like the Irishman who said he didn't care how high he went as long as he had one foot on the ground. But business is business and aviation certainly annihilates time and distance. In five weeks the party safely and comfortably completed a merry-go-round that by any other mode of travel would take three years, if you lived through it.

Tanforan Racing Impresses Expert From "Down Under"

By J. W. MARCHBANK

International tussles on the race tracks in California, with rivals for the home-breds coming from Australasia, look more promising aa plans for conducting the sport in this state on the most modern lines are developed. Pioneering the return of racing to California and now actively engaged in a campaign to reduce the commission on the pari-mutuel pools from twelve to nine per cent, I am always heartened by appreciative words from noted visitors.

The latest kind comment is from John Underhill, one of the best known and highly respected of racing men of the land south of the equator. In a graphic article in the Sydney Referee about the sport at Tanforan, we read:

> "It was at the invitation of Mr. John W. Marchbank, owner of Tanforan, that Mr. Underhill saw a week of racing at that track. Mr. Underhill said Mr. Marchbank spent a mint of money and much effort in fighting for the re-establishment of racing, so that he consequently deserves whatever he reaps from his enterprise."

One note in the interview with the genial Australian pertinent to my attempt to bring the pastime here to the most lofty plane is the interest of Americans in Australian racing as a guide in the conduct and building up of the sport. What better way could we take advantage of the opportunity to learn from our friends in the southern hemisphere than by making conditions so enticing they will send over not one representative of their stakes performers but a score of them?

I see no insurmountable obstacle to the shipment of some of our best gallopers, now and then, for the racing at Flemington, Randwick and other famous courses, and as a return of the compliment, the sending to these shores of champions bred in Australia and New Zealand. That surely is a laudable ambition and something we should keep in mind all the time we are working for a reduction in the "take" and other improvements in our sport.

CANDIDATE BEER CLOSING CAMPAIGN

Rapidly bringing to a close a countywide campaign for the election of Fred E. Beer, San Mateo, as supervisor for the Second (San Mateo-Belmont-San Carlos) district, his campaign executive committee today predicted his election to the post in the primary next Tuesday.

Visiting every section of the county, Beer and his workers said they had met with favorable response, and were confident of strong support from the entire county, which votes this year for the first time on supervisorial candidates. In thei rcampaigning, Beer's workers say, they found great demand for capable and experienced public officials, who have shown a keen understanding of the county's problems.

In his closing appeal to the voters, Beer has cited his many qualifications for the supervisorial post. In his more than a score of years' residence in this county, the candidate has won a wide reputation for his civic endeavors and for his leadership in moves to develop and improve conditions in this county.

"This county has been my home for many years," Beer says. "It has been a pleasure for me to take an active part in its development and progress, because I have absolute faith in it, and know that to advance it must be properly governed.

"There are conditions in this county's governmental affairs that need the guidance of a capable and experienced public official, which I have the honor of having been. I served my home city of San Mateo for many years as mayor and city councilman, and my civic work and my business have brought me into close touch with every part of the county. I feel that I know conditions thoroughly.

"There is no need for me to enumerate all the things I believe should be done to help this county; you undoubtedly know them as well as I. However, I want every voter to know that as supervisor I shall always welcome advice and suggestions. My time always will be available in the solution of any problem that affects our welfare. This county is faced with governmental problems I am confident I can help to solve. I know much of government and business problems.

"As a member of the county board, San Mateo County interests, public and private, always will be my first consideration ,and I will not be handicapped, because I have managed my own campaign, I owe no political patronage ,and I have made no pledges or promises, except one—that is to serve you to the bery best of my ability."

Every voter in San Mateo County will have a chance to vote on Beer's candidacy in the primary election Tuesday, August 28.

SAN BENITO CO. SHOW TO HAVE NEW FEATURES

Nestled in among the hills near Hollister, in the northern end of San Benito county, in one of the most natural settings for a rodeo and saddle horse show that nature can provide, there will be held the annual San Benito County Saddle Horse Show, August 24-25-36.

Bordered by ranches that produce the best beef and horse flesh and offering the finest riders that years of living in a cow country can produce, this show gives to its patrons just what one would find on one of the large ranches during rodeo time.

This show has many unique features. One is that no professionals are allowed to compete and the entire show from officials to every contestant must be a local resident of San Benito county; also, children who learn the cattle business early in the cow country have special events to show their skill.

Another unique event is the contest for Figure eight ropers. This difficult feat is accomplished by the rider looping the loop in such a manner as to throw the rope to form a figure eight. The rope loop catches the running steer by the horns and the bottom loop snares the flying front feet.

Since the show is not operated for profit, all grammar school children are admitted free on Friday and Saturday afternoons.

STATE FAIR MINING DAY WILL ATTRACT

Mining Day at the California state fair will be made the occasion for one of the most important conferences of the year on the present and future development of the industry.

Tasker L. Oddie, president of the Gold Mining Association of America, and former governor and United States senator of Nevada, will tell of plans for federal aid in mining development.

BLUE EAGLE PROGRESS

A few days after the recovery pro-m was launched, General Hugh S. nson explained very pointedly its n import. He said that the work-ity of the National Recovery Act lved itself into the question: "Can get all employers in America to about the same thing at about the e time when they know that by g it they can bring this country urs out of this depression and lift deadening load of fear and dread n the people's hearts?"

oday we see his question partially wered. Practically all of American e and industry is organized. Nine-ix per cent of our 24,000,000 wage ers in 1929 are covered by NRA s. Business is improving. Unem-ment is less. Fear is passing and Blue Eagle is the co-operative bol of most of America.

t the NRA makes bold to add continued progress means con-ed support of the Blue Eagle. loyes and the public in general called upon not to relax for one ent their support of Blue Eagle ucers and distributers. Watch the windows. Watch the labels on you buy. Patronize shops dis-ng recovery insignia. Commend friends doing likewise. Employ-themselves cannot go far in up-ng wages and keeping down when competitors, paying less working employes longer, are also arly encouraged. Let your spend-go where it will bring in return r wages and shorter working s.

r every employe and employer in United States this is an easy but rtant part to play in NRA's next towards co-operating in the ad-tration of the codes of fair com-on, under which, with public as-nce, General Johnson's requisites be fulfilled entirely, so that all oyers in America will do "about ame thing at about the same" Make progress never ending, ecovery permanent.

el Employment at New High: A y of the steel industry's first of operation under its code re-that by June of this year em-ent had increased approximate-per cent over last June; wages, cent; average hourly earnings, cent. Reduction of the average week by about 9 per cent ht employment to the highest n four years—virtually as many rs on the job as in 1929, in spite fact that the industry was op-g at only a little above half of pacity. About $12,000,000 more aid out in wages and salaries in 1934, than would have been dis-on the pre-code basis.

ton Garment Workers Helped: e NRA there were 13,000 child laborers in this industry and there were sewing machine operators who worked fifty-four hours a week for 8 cents an hour. Since the adoption of its code, these abuses have been eliminated and the purchasing power of 250,000 workers has increased by $25,000,000 over 1929, according to the Code Authority. The hourly wage rate now in force is 20 per cent higher than in 1925 and 63 per cent higher than last year.

"Small" Druggists Vote for NRA: "Drug Topics" is conducting a poll in forty-three states and the District of Columbia to find out how druggists feel about the Retail Drug Code. About 95 per cent of those queried may be classed as "small business." A summary of the answers so far received reveals that practically 90 per cent would like to see their code retained after NIRA expires. Furthermore, while 7 per cent would retain the present wage provisions, 75 per cent favor higher wages; and, while 19 per cent would keep the hours now in effect, about 50 per cent would like to see shorter hours adopted. Far from wanting trade practice provisions scrapped, 93 per cent would like even more stringent rules.

Less Than One Per Cent Violate Codes: Because controversy is always news, more is heard about code violations than about code compliance. The fact is, however, that without coercion or legal action, American industry is complying with its codes to a remarkable degree. Only 63,151 complaints had been registered to July 1, against 2,5000,000 employers operating under 506 codes. Of these, almost half were duplications. Many more were crank letters or complaints based on misunderstanding of code provisions. Therefore, less than 1 per cent of all employers had been found guilty of code violations prior to July 1.

State Directors Adjust Many Complaints: During the two weeks ended July 21, NRA State Directors adjusted, without reference to Washington, a total of 990 complaints alleging violations of code wage and hour provisions. In most cases, alleged violations were found to be merely employers' misunderstandings of their obligations. Clarification by State Directors brought about the restitution of $106,732 in back wages to some 4300 employes throughout the country.

Small Town Exemptions Clarified: A new administrative order lists fully those local retail services or trades which are exempted from code or P. R. A. provisions regarding maximum hours of employment, minimum wages, hours of operation, price regulation and assessments to Code Authorities. This exemption applies only to the following businesses, in towns of 2500 or less, which are "engaged exclusively in local trade or service": Retail sale of bakery products; retail food and grocery trade; retail jewelry trade; retail tobacco trade; retail trade, including drug and booksellers trade; motor vehicle storage and parking; barber shops; beauty parlors; bowling and billiards; cleaning and dyeing; laundry; real estate brokerage; shoe rebuilding; hotels, restaurants; confectioners' stores, and retail sale of milk. Child labor provisions and fair trade practice provisions (except those which relate to the minimum price at which merchandise may be sold) still apply.

What Strikes Signify: Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, in a special interview in the New York Times of August 5, said: "Disturbing as the recent labor troubles have been, they did not come as a surprise to any one who has studied our economic history. Each time the country has suffered a financial crisis, strikes have marked the beginning of recovery. They may be regarded as a sure sign of an improvement in conditions. Although this depression is the worst one from which the country has suffered in years, the number of strikes is smaller than those attending our recoveries in the past.

HIS FINE RECORD MERITS SUCCESS

"The record of Flynn will keep him in."

This was the general sentiment prevailing throughout San Mateo county in reference to the re-election of Dan Flynn to the office of county assessor, because of the outstanding record that Flynn has made during the many years he has held this important county office.

Citing the efficient manner in which he has handled this county office, the thousands of supporters of Flynn are planning an intensive wind-up campaign during the next week.

Because of the policy long established by Assessor Flynn on equality of assessments, the courteous and efficient manner in which he has managed his office without political activity, thousands of property owners and citizens are rallying to his support.

With election only a few days off, the supporters of Assessor Flynn are urging all voters not to be misled by compaign tactics of the opposition, but to study the splendid record that Assessor Flynn has made.

Likewise, the Flynn supporters point out that the office of assessor requires an official who has been trained in this line of work, one who understands the values of property and knows the functioning of this important department of our county government. They emphasize that by re-electing Assessor Flynn the long experience he possesses is the assurance to the property owners of the continuation of an equality in assessments.

SOME ANCIENT HAPPENINGS OF CITY REVIEWED

Incidents of Pioneer Days and Characters Recalled For Our Readers

(By An Old-Timer)

Thornton Beach Boulevard—This is the title that an old Colma pioneer suggests for the School street extension project. This man is in hearty accord with the completion of the project that "Good Roads" Jim Casey so well commenced eighteen years ago. Since that time the project has been entirely neglected, although $85,000 of the people's money had been judiciously expended. This pioneer and I did not always agree in the past, but we usually harmonized our differences and I certainly appreciated his advice and effective work, because he was always a strong factor in putting Colma on the map.

Since writing my former stories, including the abandonment of this valuable project and of the "Portal of the Past," that $45,000 concrete bridge near the Skyline boulevard, due west of the corner of Junipero Serra boulevard and School street, there has another important matter for consideration come to my mind that I wish to suggest. That is the development of the Palisades that guard Thornton Beach. While they are not so high as the Palisades at Santa Monica, they can be easily developed until they are far more beautiful in themselves and, in addition, they can also lay claim to the magnificent scenic grandeur of Mussel Rock and the south end of Thornton Beach. Reader, were you ever there during low tide to walk through the natural arches that the angry waves have worn through Mussel Rock during the past ages, and found yourself on another sandy beach? That point actually far exceeds in beauty and interest Point San Pedro, a few miles down the coast. In fact, there is not another such perforated rock anywhere on the Californai coast except north of Eureka.

While we all strive for the completion of the School street extension, let us not overlook the Thornton Beach Palisades, the development of which will in a very short time result in many marine-view mansions, such as are found on the Santa Monica Palisades. The city of Los Angeles lays claim to the Santa Monica Palisades as an important scenic attraction, and San Francisco would naturally lay claim to the far more magnificent palisades that will guard the finest bathing beach in the vicinity of the city.

Besides the School street extension, as described in former articles, the Skyline boulevard would also make an easy way of getting to Thornton Beach and the Palisades, and there would eventually ensue a splendid resort. It is all San Mateo County and would soon result in the development of what is now garden truck lands into magnificent marine view homes, and thereby add great value to San Mateo County and at the same time not greatly curtail the area of the finest garden lands in the world. This old pioneer's interest is not all the interest that has been aroused since the beginning of this crusade for completion of this project, and every day come words of encouragement to "keep up the good work."

Colma can brag of many advantages, even to the scarcity of pests, such as mosquitoes, and Daly City never had a mosquito, so Old Timer wishes to digress a bit to mention his trip to Calistoga, the mecca of geysers and mud baths that are genuine hell-fire and brimstone, and Calistoga is a real "champeen" when it comes to producing mosquitoes from irrigated vineyards. 'Twas the greatest mosquito convention ever known, with delegates from all the suns, moons and stars of the universe. Talk about mosquitoes—it is the absolute truth that a great many of them would weigh a pound, as they light on the trees and bark.

In the issue of the North End Record, May 27, 1909, there appears a splendid article written by that grand old pioneer, R. S. Thornton, telling of Colma Valley and School House station, on the main line of the S. P., dating as far back as 1853. "A Brief History of Colma's Early Days" is the title, and we will glean many interesting excerpts that every reader, no matter whether he is a pioneer or of the present population, that we will condense and compile for one of our stories in the near future.

A benefit entertainment and dance was given for Mrs. C. Latti at Castle Hall, June 5, 1909, resulting in a splendid success.

The seventeenth birthday party of Chester Pratt was attended by Frances and Paul Woolsey(Ruby and Pearl Luce, Gladys, Merl and Leonard Faber, Katie and John Galway, Albert Sturla, Emmett Harrison, Manuelo Tuchy, Raymond Cortsen, Josephine Lindsay, Harvey Ward, Jessie and Chester Pratt.

By invitation of "Sunny Jim" Coffroth, the Eagles flocked at Tanforan and witnessed boxing exhibitions by Ketchel, Kaufman and Nelson, Colma-Vista Grande Aerie No. 1848.

"Red" Smith of Vista Grande is now a street car motorman.

Dick English and Walt Fahy have forgotten all about the holdup and are paying close attention to the cash register.

Mickey Griffin wants it understood that he hauls trunks and not drunks. Mickey is a real character and laughs at jokes played on himself.

The name of the North End Record was changed to Colma Record, June 10, 1909, and Matt Callan celebrated by making a speech at Coakley's saloon and paying his subscription for ten years in advance. Matt was a real fellow.

Harry Pierce's scheme for cleaning his pipe was to soak it in whisky and then letting Mail Carrier Sam Cerf drink the booze to keep up his average. Sam was formerly a skipper of a Death Valley pirate ship.

Billy Sweeney, the "giant blacksmith" of Vista Grande, says he can shoe a horse with his eyes shut.

To be continued next week. If you have any real good ones that are twenty-five years old send 'em in.

SOME HEROES AND EXPLOITS OF EARLY TIMES

Tale of Giuseppe Garibaldi, Italian Revolutionary Character

(By Maude Larue Ives)

In his youth and early manhood this Italian hero was a sailor, but at the age of 26 he came under the influence of Giuseppe Mazzini and other young enthusiasts of the liberation movement, and he thereupon dedicated his life to that cause.

Condemned to death in 1834 because of his share in an unsuccessful outbreak in Genoa, Garibaldi fled to France and soon afterward made his way to South America. There he won fame as a brilliant leader in the struggle of the new republic of Uruguay against Argentine.

In 1848 the news of the uprising of the northern Italians against Austria brought him back to his native country to give heroic and intellectual service in a struggle that left Italy still in the hands of an oppressor. When this revolution failed, Garibaldi took refuge in Greece, later reaching Tunis and after that emigrating to the United States. During the next few years he revisited South America, but in 1854 he returned to Europe, settling on a small farm on the island of Caprera in the Mediterranean Sea.

In 1859, when the Italians again struck for liberty under the standard of the King of Sardinia, Garibaldi began the most momentous period of his career. His brilliant and effective services of that year were continued in 1862 in a spectacular conquest of the island of Sicily, which he wrested from the King of Naples, with the aid of a band of volunteers. This victory was followed by his triumphal march into the city of Naples. In the words of an eminent historian (Myers): "The adventurous daring of the hero, Garibaldi, changed the kingdom of Sardinia into the kingdom of Italy." He then resigned his command to the Sardinian king, Victor Emmanuel, and retired to his island farm.

Garibaldi was still far from satisfied with what had been accomplished and his impatience to see the city of Rome again the capital of Italy led him to make two attempts to capture it.

In his second invasion of the Papal States in 1867 he was defeated by French troops, who came to the aid of the Pope, and was made a prisoner. Later he was permitted to return to his home.

On the outbreak of the Franco-German war, in 1870, he took command of a company of French volunteers in Burgundy and at the end of the war he was made a member of the French Assembly. Meantime he saw the fulfillment of his hopes in the complete unification of Italy, with the Eternal City the national seat of government.

He performed his last public service as a member of the Italian Parliament, to which he was elected in 1874.

Garibaldi's place in history is secure. He is honored as a true patriot and hero of the struggle that freed Italy from foreign rule and gave it a place among the modern nations of Europe.

ALL IN THE FAMILY

Seeing her husband fall from a scaffold in Chicago, Mrs. John Moynihan dropped dead. Moynihan was only slightly injured.

OUR POLICY

Unalterably in favor of a constructive policy that will assist materially in the upbuilding of the Daly City district, the editor also puts himself on record as determined to "write up" anything that retards the expansion of this home loving community. This is not a muck raking sheet, but any time the editor sees things going on that need particular attention he will get busy.

We have been impressed by a preponderance of sentiment that will bring about a steady increase in civic consciousness. All our readers are aware that a wholesome interest in the affairs of the municipality will redound to their own good. That is what we are aiming at—making Daly City of note for its civic spirit.

Harmony is our watchword. Petty bickering and going about with a chip on the shoulder, ready, apparently, to hurl a metaphorical brick at a neighbor, have no place in our creed. A truly neighborly accord is something worth striving for.

Unfortunately, a few individuals have come into our midst, intent, apparently, to be disturbers. These individuals will not get very far in their unpatriotic endeavors, judging from the expressions of opinion we hear or all sides.

We promise to do our part to ward off any action that savors of unfairness to any citizen, whether in public or private life.

NEW RACE COURSE SOON TO BE READY

With stable reservations already requested for more than 200 high class eastern horses, northern California racing fans are eagerly looking forward to what promises to be the state's greatest race meeting at Bay Meadows, which opens near San Mateo in late October.

A $25,000 handicap and eight stake races have been officially announced for the meeting. The big race will be the Bay Meadows handicap, to be run December 15, for all ages at one and one-eighth miles. It is expected to attract a large field of the nation's best thoroughbreds, such as Equipoise, High Quest, Cavalcade, Discovery, Riskulus and Gallant Sir. The latter two already have been nominated and are now at San Jose, waiting for the race.

Names values and conditions for the eight other races have been officially announced by the California Jockey Club. The total value of all these races is $53,500 and is expected to be a strong attraction to owners of eastern stables. The events follow:

Bay Shore Handicap, October 27; all ages, 6 furlongs, $1500 added.

Stockton Handicap, November 3; 3 year olds and up, mile and 70 yards, $1500 added.

San Jose Handicap, November 10; 2 year olds, 6 furlongs, $5000 added.

Oakland Handicap, November 17; all ages, 1 mile, $2500 added.

San Mateo Handicap, November 24; 3 year olds and up, mile and 70 yards, $2500 added.

Thanksgiving Handicap, November 29; all ages, mile and sixteenth, $3000 added.

Sacramento Handicap, December 1; all ages, 6 furlongs, $2500 added.

San Francisco Handicap, December 8; all ages, mile and sixteenth, $5000 added.

An outstanding two year old race, ranking next to the big race in importance, is scheduled for November 10. It will be for a purse of $5000 and will bring together for the first time the champion juveniles of the New York and Chicago racing seasons, probably for the two year old championship of the year. Toro Nancy, winner of the $60,000 Arlington Futurity at Chicago recently, and Below Zero, which has beaten the best youngsters on the New York tracks, will be the main contenders.

Installation of the $250,000 totalisator, an intricate electrical mechanism that instantly registers and totals all wagers as they are made, on a large board in the infield, began this week. Three hundred miles of wire are used in this device. Twenty expert electricians will be busy two months completing the installation.

Construction work on the beautiful new plant is progressing rapidly and 150 workers are busy on the grandstand, club house, stables and paddock and grading work. A large lake will be made in the infield. William P. Kyne, general manager, expects to have the entire plant completed by October 1.

SHIRLEY TEMPLE HAS HER FIRST BIG SENSATION

Golden haired, four year old Shirley Temple's dancing feet and crooning voice earned for her one of the most promising screen contracts that has ever been awarded a child. The little actress—born at Santa Monica, Cal.—entered into a long term agreement with the Fox Film Corporation when she affixed a scraggly "X" on a document almost as tall as she is herself.

Shirley Temple

Shirley came to the attention of studio officials recently, when her parents, the G. S. Temples, brought her to Fox Movietone City lot in answer to a general call by Lew Brown, assistant producer of "Stand Up and Cheer!" which comes to the Daly City Theater Friday and Saturday, August 24 and 25.

"Brown, who "discovered" Jackie Cooper several years ago, had interviewed some 200 juvenile aspirants, when Shirley demonstrated her varied talents by executing intricate double wing and tap dances, and then capped the performance with a remarkable blues song.

As a result, she was signed immediately to lead an elaborate revue number in "Stand Up and Cheer!" which boasts twenty-four stars. Subsequently, a song was specially written for her to sing.

VAST ROAD BUILDING INCREASES NEED FOR RELIABLE TOUR DATA

Route planning and accurate knowledge of road conditions in advance of departing on any extended vacation motor tour is more important this season than at any time in recent years. This is emphasized in a statement by John R. Graham of Merced, president of the California State Automobile Association. The head of the motorists' organization declared that large scale road construction projects now under way on important highways throughout the United States make it more imperative than ever before for the motor traveler to prepare himself with dependable road information. This is particularly so, he said, when planning trips extending outside of California.

"While there is considerable construction on roads in California, little of this work is materially affecting travel conditions," Graham continued. "But the motorist charting a trip beyond the state borders should realize the fact that more than 300,000 men are now at work on some 5000 road projects in all sections of the country. There are many detours, most of which are well maintained and adequately marked, but this is not true of all of them. Many delays and other difficulties can be avoided by the motorist who plans his trip thoroughly in advance and secures reliable touring advice. In virtually every section optional routes are available for the motorist who desires to save time and wear and tear on his car.

"This large volume of road work, coming at the season of heavy travel when millions are taking long postponed vacations, is certain to slow up the movement of motorists who fail to familiarize themselves with road conditions. Nevertheless, the detour signs are signs of progress. They mean that unemployed are being put to work. They mean the distribution of money throughout the country. And they also mean that better and safer highways will be available in the months ahead."

EDITOR CAN'T REMEMBER

According to astronomical calculations by M. Felipoff, a Russian scientist, the legendary continent of "Atlantis" sank beneath the waters of the Atlantic Ocean in the year 7256 B. C., the date indicated by Plato's writings.

Tight Wheel Nuts

Nuts on rear wheels should be tightened enough to avoid the possibility of the wheel hub working on the key, according to the emergency road service of the California Automobile Association. If the wheel works loose it does not take long to enlarge the key way in the hub or axle. Once enlarged, it is practically impossible to keep the wheel tight without making replacements.

Clean Breaker Points

For good motor performance it is necessary to have clean breaker points, according to the emergency road service of the California State Automobile Association.

Cleaning and adjusting the points is a comparative simple operation and the cost of having this work done by a competent mechanic is moder er work, but not both at the same time.

The district president in reporting on the July state board meeting, stated that there are twenty million young people in the United States between the ages of 16 and 25, and of these sixteen and a half million are out of employment and that there are 100,000 "drifters" in California.

Community singing, as led by Mrs. Lyle D. Wise of San Carlos, director of education, and Music Chairman Mrs. E. E. Lockerby of Burlingame, was inspiring. Words of songs were thrown on the screen for members to follow. When the district reconvened for the afternoon session, Mrs. James R. Hattrick, accompanied by Mrs. Lockerby, sang "Spinning Wheel" and "Sweet Miss Mary.' They received much applause.

Mrs. Garland, in her address, spoke on the lessons of the state convention and stressed the key message, "A time like this demands strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands."

Miss Victoria Roussell of Belmont and Mrs. J. R. Spann of Burlingame, life membership cup, won by the dispast presidents, made short talks. The life membership cup won by the district through the efforts of Mrs. Spann when she was State Chairman of Life Membership, is on display in the trophy case of the Burlingame High School.

Miss Mabel Gregson announced that all units that wish to conduct first aid classes under the direction of Mrs. Ray Boulton should send in applications as soon as possible.

The radio talk for Monday of this week was over KYA on "Radio as a Cultural Influence," by Mrs. F. W. Comba. A group of songs by Miss Barbara Bultman of Burlingame and Mrs. H. Chapman, accompanist, was also a feature of this program.

Last year the seventeenth district made two grades in publicity, instead of the prescribed one, much to the delight of Mrs. Joseph E. Morcombe, who has been state chairman of publicity for three years. Mrs. Morcombe is now regional director for the national organization and will conduct a series of conferences for all publicity chairmen of the district, the first of which was held in the Burlingame City Library Tuesday morning of this week.

Inasmuch as many chairmen have combe, a good attendance is expected asked to be instructed by Mrs. Morat all the conferences.

The district luncheon was held at the Burlingame Women's Club, under the direction of Mrs. R. D. Richards, reciprocity chairman.

Tuesday afternoon of this week Mrs. A. M. Jeppeson, director of public welfare, met the chairmen of her department at a luncheon conference at her home on Burlingame avenue.

Mrs. F. M. Stranger, program director, will assemble with all program and finance chairmen today, Friday, August 24, at one o'clock, in the Burlingame City Library. The finance group will also meet at the library this afternoon. Mrs. F. L. Kneupfer, district treasurer, and Mrs. J. E. Baughn, district chairman of finance and budget, will preside over the finance discussion.

All unit members are welcome to be present at district executive board meetings, but do not have the privilege of voting.

Mrs. John J. Garland, president, Seventeenth District, California Congress of Parents and Teachers, will speak over KYA on the radio broadcast program of the California Congress on Monday, September 17, at 1:45 p. m., on "Parent-Teacher Ethics," the talk to last fifteen minutes. AMERICAN LEGION NOTES OF INTEREST

(By L. M. Hill)

Department Commander's Message.

We are starting a new Legion year.

We are going out to make this a Legion year that will rank higher in accomplishment than ever before I know that every member of the department is going to join with me in reaching that objective.

We are going to show the world that the Legionnaires of California are united for God and Country, and ready to battle for the ideals that are back of those two words.

It is not the individual, whether he be commander or just a worker in the ranks, who is going to accomplish this It will take real team work and I am asking all of you to get on the team and swing a bat.

ARCHIE CLOSSEN
Department Commander.

The department convention held in San Francisco was the best attended we have ever had. It was marked with a seriousness which was marked. The delegates were there to serve notice on the world just where the American Legion stands on the problems of the day.

The programs of not employing more than 5 per cent of aliens on public work, shorter working hours, and old age and unemployment insurance were adopted. More help for the State Bureau of Criminal Identification, and urging that the State Motor Patrol be made a real state police with full police powers, were among the subjects on which resolutions were adopted.

By resolutions and word of mouth, a new bond was created between union labor and the Legion. Secretary Paul Scharrenberg of the State Federation of Labor appeared before the convention and pledged the co-operation of union labor with the Legion in its fight for true Americanism.

CHAILLAUX THANKS LEGION ..

In laying aside the joys and cares of commandership I wish to thank you thousands of loyal Legionnaires from Siskiyou to Calexico who have made it possible for me to carry on, and who by your efforts made it a big Legion year for California.

It has been a great year and I have enjoyed the association with all of you, and know that you will give my successor the same wonderful support and inspiration that you gave to me.

As in the past, my services in the future will always be at the call of the American Legion. I am at your service

HOMER CHAILLAUX,
Junior Past Commander.
